GENERAL STRIKE TO BEGIN TODAY

Political Demonstration in Russia Promises to Be on Far More Extensive Scale Than Was Expected---Insurgents Seize State Treasury at Takum.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 20.—The general strike begins tomorrow and will be on a far more extensive scale than any previous movement of the kind. It was ascertained tonight that all of the largest works in and about Petersburg, including the Putiloff and Nobel works, will close down operations tomorrow.

It is said that the insurgents have seized the state treasury at Takum, in the province of Courland.

SARATOFF, Dec. 20.—Eight hundred workmen of the vicinity have telegraphed Premier Witte, appealing for the immediate convocation of the national assembly in order to satisfy the demands of the peasants as the only means of ending the agitation and uprisings.

The local courts-martial, composed of three officers, have condemned to death 15 persons convicted of participating in the recent uprisings.

SEVASTOPOL, Dec. 20.—The Russian Black Sea fleet, which has been ordered to Libau, will be held here for the present, it is reported, because of the disturbed condition of the Baltic provinces.

DMITROVSK, Dec. 20.—The Russian workmen have decided to organize a republican government, to be set up in opposition to the existing government, which they hold to be illegal. They have already established a provisional government, with headquarters at Moscow.

WARSAW, Dec. 20.—Employes of the fire department have struck for shorter hours and have refused to take out the fire engines during the recent disturbances. The Polish National party has issued a manifesto ordering a general strike, to prevent their Russian masters from using the Polish troops to suppress the revolution in Poland.

All trains from Russian Poland to the Austrian frontier will stop at midnight. It is believed that the Warsaw dockers will strike on Friday.

SMALL INSURANCE COMPANIES NOW UNDER INVESTIGATION

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—The Washington life insurance company, the Equitable and the Bankers Life have jointly divided the attention of the legislative investigating committee today. John Tatlock, president of the Washington Life, finished testimony which was begun yesterday. Tatlock declared that the company paid a dividend every five years. The witness said he saw the Thomas act sold on Washington securities and that he never told the financial board what to buy. Mr. Tatlock said the insurance companies would keep him in touch with Wall street, as of their knowledge of the market. He also favors life insurance companies speculating in securities. Cornelius Doremus, president of the Germania Life, bought one-third of his company's business was done in Europe, Germany and that the company in many respects is behind the state of America. He said it is more stable than Germany, while the cost is a great deal less than American companies. He said he drew his salary in Germany. He said he believes in American ways of doing business, as well as methods.

The only contributions for legislative purposes paid by this company were $500 to a fund having for its object the defeat of the mortgage tax law and $500 to further the passage of the insurance bill in Albany in 1904. No campaign contributions had been made.

J. H. Hughes, who collected the fund to defeat the mortgage tax law, said he secured a fund of $5,000 for this purpose. The Equitable investigation will be resumed tomorrow.

MURDERED IN DEATH VALLEY

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 20.—It is generally believed that Walter Scott, the cowboy miner, who has been the cause of widespread attention by his scattering of money during his spectacular episodes, has met his death in Death Valley. On his last trip to his mine in Death Valley he had a mule and carrying with him two repeating rifles. A letter received by the manager in this city from Walter William, at Bennett's, says that Scott's mule galloped into there on December 7 with its saddle pierced with a bullet and saddle covered with blood. King telegraphed to Barstow and Bullfrog for a description of Scott's body. King says that Scott has been murdered for money somewhere on the road and a thorough search for his body has been instituted in Death Valley. Throughout Funeral mountains his brother, accompanied by Merrick, a well-known sheriff, went back on the trail of the mule for 50 miles after leaving camp but a terrific sand storm obliterated all tracks and their supplies having become exhausted were compelled to return. Later they started out again and the search is being continued.

Imboden, who was convicted yesterday of the wreck of the Denver, Sa[illegible] Camp of Fort Worth, Roberts of Drummond, Okla., and B. Davis of Vinita, I. T., also indicted on the same charge of conspiracy. District Attorney Stringer announced today that he wished the cases against Camp, Roberts and Davis dismissed. All three men were released on their personal recognizances.

BIG FIRE IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—The Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad, which a few months ago suffered the loss of the Hoboken terminal buildings by fire, sustained a still heavier loss today when its new ferry terminal at the foot of Barclay street, Manhattan, were burned to the ground. Workmen were putting the finishing touches on the building when the first alarm sounded shortly before [illegible] hour. The flames quickly communicated to the new ferry house, which, it will be recalled, of New Jersey, which with the Lackawanna terminal, were considered the finest ferry buildings in the east, and this structure also was almost totally destroyed. For a time the fire threatened the Pennsylvania and Erie ferry houses, but these were saved through the hard work of the firemen who attacked the blaze with engine, hose and water from the water front. The loss is estimated at a half a million dollars. A careful search failed to show that any lives were lost.

SENATOR W. A. CLARK GIVES GRANDDAUGHTER DOWRY OF $1,000,000

JOAQUIN MILLER'S AGED MOTHER DIES

OAKLAND, Calif., Dec. 20.—Mrs. Miller, the aged mother of Joaquin Miller, poet of the Sierras, died this afternoon at the poet's residence, The Heights, a short distance back of this city. Mrs. Miller was almost 90 years old and had been suffering from paralysis for a considerable period. With her husband she came to Oakland over twenty years ago and had resided at the same place. She was buried in the family graveyard back of the house where the poet had cheered a dying pioneer and raised a funeral pyre for members of his family.

Held Up by Two Footpads Near Corner of Pike's Peak Avenue and Wahsatch Shortly After 10 p. m. While Hurrying to Catch Train---Highwaymen Are at Large.

Frank L. Scott, 34 years old, for five years vice president the Davis Realty company, 27 East Pike's Peak avenue, was shot in the back by two hold-ups in front of the residence of L. N. Strong, 120 East Pike's Peak avenue, at 10.05 o'clock last night, and probably will die. Mr. Scott was on his way to the Santa Fe depot to catch a train for California. At 2.30 o'clock this morning the attending physicians held out little hope of Mr. Scott's recovery. Should he live, his left side will be paralyzed for life. Despite the efforts of the entire police force the footpads have not yet been apprehended.

Mr. Scott's Statement

While in the dressing room at St. Francis hospital thirty minutes after the shooting Mr. Scott made the following statement to a representative of The Gazette:

I was on my way to the Santa Fe depot to take the train for California and was walking along the north side of Pike's Peak avenue. Two young men passed me and the next moment I heard one of them say something that I understood to be for me to hold up my hands. Before I could turn around I was shot and I fell.

Asked for a description of the holdsters, Mr. Scott said: I cannot tell much about them for it was dark, and I merely glanced at them as they passed. Both were young men and about my height, from 5 feet 6 inches to 5 feet 8 inches, and both wore dark clothes. One wore a cap and the other a hat, but neither wore overcoats.

Heard Shot Fired.

Dr. J. Wallace Beveridge was the first to reach the side of the injured man after the shooting. He heard the shot fired and saw two men run to the corner of Wahsatch avenue, where they turned north. A hack driver in the employ of Mr. Scott discovered the injured man and the doctor called a cab and had the injured man taken to St. Francis hospital.

Result of Operation

Mr. Scott was operated upon after arriving at St. Francis by Dr. Joseph Perkins. He was anesthetized. The operation lasted thirty-five minutes and he would have had a fighting chance if he had been stronger than he was, but one of the surgeons could not hold out any hope of his recovery and he died at 1.45 this morning. He did not survive his left side was paralyzed. They found the spine shattered at the second or third lumbar and the bullet glanced to the left entering the cavity but they failed to find the bullet. The lower limbs were paralyzed. He was given oxygen under the knife.

A. J. Bendle notified Mr. Scott's telegraph and received a reply statement that she would leave Colorado Springs. Mr. Bendle claims hopes for Mr. Scott's recovery.

Saw Flash of Gun

Seth Hull, who lives at 120 East Pike's Peak avenue, was standing 50 feet of the place where the shooting occurred. Mrs. Hull, who was with him, was facing the west and saw the flash of the weapon.

"Immediately after we heard the report I ran to the window and looked out to see what was the matter but could not see anyone but a wounded man crying and calling for help," said Mr. Hull.

Running to the place he was withdrawing on the group of men, about the same time [illegible] whom I did not know. A hack driver who was passing was hailed to help the wounded man put into a hack and started for the police station but the injured man told them to take him to the hospital as fast as possible and they did so.

Hack Driver's Statement.

R. H. Thompson, a hack driver, was driving east on Pike's Peak avenue when the shooting took place. He was on his way to the Santa Fe depot and was at the intersection of Pike's Peak when he heard the shot. He heard someone [illegible] and turning his hack but saw a number of women standing over Mr. Scott. Of the men who did the shooting he saw nothing. Somebody asked him to drive quickly to the police station but he started to do so by the Brown house called him back. He asked him to drive Mr. Scott and himself to St. Francis hospital. He turned only four minutes to make the trip.

STORM VISITS JACKSONVILLE

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 20.—A storm swept Jacksonville and surrounding country this afternoon for hours, cutting the city completely off from telegraphic communication with the outer world. In Jacksonville no damage was done beyond the blowing down of a few signs and injury to roofs. The local weather bureau reported a wind velocity of 50 miles an hour.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—The reports received at the weather bureau here tonight regarding the prevalence of an electric storm with heavy fall of rain and a wind blowing a velocity of 50 miles an hour at Jacksonville, Fla., this afternoon, it was at first reported that a tornado had struck the Florida city, as since before 6 o'clock tonight it had been completely cut off from telegraphic communication with Atlanta, Augusta and Savannah, the three nearest largest cities. Information which reached the weather bureau came in the regular night report from the observer at Jacksonville and made no mention of cyclone disturbance.

This afternoon the weather bureau sent out storm warnings for the benefit of shipping along the coast of Florida from Tampa northward and westward and along the Atlantic coast from Jacksonville north.

Savannah had also felt the effects of the storm and at the city the wind reached a high velocity accompanied by thunder storms.

DENVER SCENE OF A TRAGEDY

DENVER, Dec. 20.—In the lobby of the Lewiston hotel late this afternoon William Wilson, a cattleman, was shot and killed by J. D. Henderson, a former partner. Turning the weapon upon himself, Henderson then fired a bullet through his breast and expired in the arms of officers who had seized him.

Wilson and Henderson were partners in the cattle business many years ago. The partnership was dissolved and Henderson, it is stated, had ever since continued to charge Wilson with defrauding him in their final settlement. Two years ago Henderson made an attempt on the life of his former partner. The two men met today directly in front of the Lewiston hotel and Henderson, without a moment's hesitation, pulled a revolver from his pocket. Wilson ran into the lobby and was about to seek shelter behind a pillar when his pursuer opened fire. Two bullets pierced Wilson's body and he rolled upon the floor. By this time officers were advancing upon Henderson but before they had fairly seized him he had ended his life by his own hand.

The success of the recent to securing concessions in the new treaty from the American government undoubtedly encouraged the Chinese to engage in the recent demonstrations.

as that telephoned to the club last night. Frank Scott has been shot and will probably die, was the message which came from the hospital shortly after 10:30 o'clock to friends who were lounging about the club at the time.

The first news of the shooting came within a half hour of the time when Mr. Scott left the club for the depot. The first message simply gave the news that a man had been held up and shot on Pike's Peak avenue. There were about twenty men in the club rooms at the time and a band rehearsal was in progress upstairs.

The second message that the injured man was Frank Scott was startling in its import. The band rehearsal was immediately stopped and the club men separated in small groups to discuss the sad affair.

Mr. Scott in company with A. J. Bendle, a business associate, took dinner at the Elks club cafe last evening after which they spent two hours on the bowling alleys and in the billiard room. They left the club a little before 10 o'clock, going directly to the Davis Realty office, 25 East Pike's Peak avenue, where Mr. Scott secured his drops and started for the depot.

A few minutes after the shooting two men boarded a Institute street car at Pike's Peak and Wahsatch avenue, rode south to Jefferson street. The conductor said that he had no particular notice to his passengers but he was under the impression that he had seen them before and that they were residents of that section.

John Scott, a brother, was badly injured in the Eden wreck a year ago last August. He secured $5,000 damages in a suit but litigation is still pending.

Held in High Esteem.

An officer of the Colorado Springs Real Estate exchange called at The Gazette office this morning to express the deep regrets of all members of the exchange at the occurrence and to voice their high appreciation of Mr. Scott as a member and friend. He is a generous companion, the speaker said, and is in fact all that he is. He is expansive. He was always active in his business methods and always kept for the city's improvement. The last time

Cornishman Falls Helpless to the Floor at End of Thirteenth Round --- Is Knocked Down Several Times During Go---Philadelphian Has All the Best of it.

MECHANICS' PAVILION, SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 20.—Robert Fitzsimmons collapsed at the close of the 13th round of his fight with Jack O'Brien. He had fought hard but nature could no longer stand the strain and after the gong had sounded for the close of the 13th round he walked to his corner and sat in his chair. Then his head fell over on his breast, his whole body collapsed and the fighting wonder of the age was all in. Referee Graney saw his condition and awarded the fight to O'Brien. While punished in the face and badly cut up and several times in jeopardy, Fitz always managed to come to and resume the fight. Just at the close of the 13th round he landed a left on O'Brien's stomach but the Philadelphian came back with a similar blow and followed it with a left on the jaw. The gong rang for the close of the round and Fitzsimmons walked to his corner. As he sat down he said to Referee Graney: "I hit him in the stomach and it is all over."

Then his head sank and Bob Fitzsimmons was defeated.

Referee Graney said:

Fitzsimmons showed his class. O'Brien is a wonderful boxer but the old man stood up and took his punishment. On occasions he showed a flash of his old time form but his strength could not last.

After the fight had been awarded to O'Brien Fitzsimmons slipped to the floor and lay prostrate on the ring. There was a call for a doctor as it was seen he was in a state of collapse. He revived, however, in a few minutes and with the assistance of his seconds was able to leave the ring. O'Brien gave a remarkable exhibition of setting and footwork. He ducked and dodged and sidestepped in a manner that was bewildering. Fitzsimmons would swing and find only the empty air and several times he fairly went through the ropes from the force of his misspent blows. O'Brien would straighten up and dash in a wicked cutting left with, while not possessing knockout force, was sufficient to tire out a game man like Fitzsimmons had the sympathy of the enormous crowd which jeered and hissed O'Brien when he doubled and ran. But the Philadelphian had all the best of it. He is a clever fighter and could not be expected to stand up against a fighter who was known to possess a dangerous punch. Fitzsimmons's left for the ribs was his best blow, in which he said that he had done his best. He said he had fought his last fight.

The Fight by Rounds

In the first round no more than feeler blows were exchanged. O'Brien contented himself with dancing about with Fitz following but seldom trying to lead.

Round 11.—Fitz in a mix drove O'Brien to the ropes with a terrific right. O'Brien landed two uppercuts. Fitz complained to the referee that O'Brien was hitting low. The crowd hissed. Fitz forced O'Brien to the ropes. Fitz chased his man around the ring, landing a straight left to the face.

Round 12.—After Fitz had forced O'Brien into a central corner O'Brien electrified the crowd with some fine work during which he shot three lefts to Fitz's face and blocked all attempts of Bob to counter.

Round 13.—In a mix up Fitz suddenly drove a powerful right to the body and then a terrific hook with left to face. O'Brien, however, retaliated with a hard left uppercut to the jaw. Fitz then planted a hard left to the body and then mixed it both landing right and left swings over the heart. As Fitz went to his corner he suddenly collapsed falling to the floor. Blood flowed from his mouth and nose and it was seen that he was fully half. A doctor was hastily summoned. Fitz was able to rise unassisted shortly after and leave the ring. It appeared he was seized with a sudden faintness and throughout his seconds were working over him, anointing him for the next round. There was nothing to indicate that Fitz was in distress when he took his seat after the tenth round had expired. When referee Graney saw Fitz's condition he promptly awarded the contest to O'Brien.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 20.—When Fitzsimmons and the Philadelphian O'Brien entered the ring at Mechanics' pavilion to battle for the high heavyweight honors O'Brien was favorite in the betting at 10 to 8. The shifting of odds forcing the Philadelphian into favoritism came rather suddenly. Up to a late hour this afternoon the Cornishman was a pronounced favorite, due to the large wagers which had been placed on him earlier in the week. O'Brien's supporters then were startled by unexpected numbers of bets at odds of 10 to 8 this afternoon the betting was even. Large blocks of O'Brien money continued to roll into the pool selling boxes and the price was quickly down to 10 to 8 on O'Brien's favor.

Fitzsimmons had agreed to fight at catch weights. O'Brien gave out his weight at 168 pounds while Fitzsimmons is said to have tipped the beam at 158 pounds.

McCoy's pavilion held one of the greatest crowds in its history. The galleries bulged with a congested mass of humanity and bankrolls were opened in order to get the upper part of the house. On the floor every seat was occupied. Late men were required to hold up to check the crowds which surged toward the building. Two fistic and prize fights preceded the main event.

They place on sale for today something over 300 of the standard copyright books of fiction at a price uniform of $1.50 per volume.

The list contains nearly hundreds of attractive titles by well known writers of the day including such names as Opp. Eggleston, Harold McGrath, Steven and Edward White, Lawson Hough, Charles Major, Mary Johnston, Grace Harlow, F. Marion Crawford, Harry Leon Wilson, Hal Hamilton, Harry Guy, Max M. Lee, Alfred Henry Lewis, Robert Chambers and a score of others of equal note.

The books offered for sale today are only fresh attractive volumes, not to be confused with the cheap reprint editions of old books sometimes offered for sale under the guise of new books.

They are all the original standard editions for which the publishers ask $1.50 and are so down said for the sale price of $1.50.

Foltz & Hardy's special book sales are always bona fide. They make no promises they do not live up to. On previous sales of this kind they have sold many 500 volumes in a day.

Persons who may take advantage of today's sale of southern to buy books. In fact their book money will go just twice as far for the half price volumes as usual until every one of the 300 volumes is sold.

The sale opens at 9:30 a. m.

MARY M'KINNEY HAS NOT ENJOINED THE ANACONDA

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Dec. 20.—The report that the Mary McKinney Mining company has obtained an injunction restraining the Anaconda company or its lessees from mining ore in certain sections of the property is erroneous. It is learned from an authoritative source that the McKinney officials have applied for no injunction, nor have they contemplated such proceedings. One of the Anaconda lessees was asked by an official of the Anaconda company to cease mining for a few days. In the meantime it is probable that the line between the McKinney and Anaconda properties will be established at depth.

DOCTORS COULD NOT HELP HER

"I had kidney trouble for years," writes Mrs. Raymond Conner of Shelton, Wash., "and the doctors could not help me. I tried Foley's Kidney Cure and the very first dose gave me relief and I am now cured. I cannot say too much for Foley's Kidney Cure." It makes the diseased kidneys sound so they will eliminate the poisons from the blood. Unless they do this, good health is impossible. For sale by Heffley-Arcularius Drug Co.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Dec. 20.—Mr. G. Burwell, Jr., was arrested by Marshal Naylor of Victor at Denver this evening for receiving stolen ore. THE PIKE CELEBRATION.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S enthusiasm for the West has more than once been of great value to the people of this region. Without his help the law providing for national aid to irrigation probably would not have been passed. This is the most conspicuous instance in which his friendship has stood the West in good stead, but there are others of no small consequence which might be mentioned, and it is distinctly gratifying to the people of the trans-Mississippi region to know that in all worthy enterprises they may count on the energetic support of so powerful an ally.

Mr. Roosevelt yesterday informed Representative Brooks that he would instruct Secretary Taft to send Federal troops to take part in the Pike Centennial celebration to be held in Colorado Springs next November. It is possible that when the President becomes more fully informed as to the scope and significance of the celebration planned he will exert his influence in other ways to contribute to its success, for as he once remarked in a speech in Colorado Springs, "I know your town and I know your people, and I like them both." When the Quarto-Centennial celebration was held in Colorado Springs in July and August, 1901, Mr. Roosevelt, then Vice President, journeyed from Washington for the express purpose of delivering an address here. He has visited this city several times both before and since that event, and has always shown the liveliest interest in its welfare. It is therefore safe to say that he will do everything which he consistently can do to aid the Pike Centennial.

When first projected several years ago this event was to be a purely local celebration, but its scope has grown until now it is to be of more than state importance. All Colorado will share in the celebration, and the entire West may well take an active interest in it. The discovery of Pike's Peak possesses a significance greater than the discovery of any other single Western mountain, because it has since become the most famous mountain in America. Scores of others are higher, many surpass it in grandeur, but what of that? The fame of the old Peak has spread throughout the world, until in foreign countries there are thousands of people who never heard of Colorado Springs and possibly not of Colorado, but who can tell all about Pike's Peak. The mountain is to America what Mont Blanc is to Europe.

When the gold-seekers of 1849 started overland for the new El Dorado on the Pacific coast their first objective point was Pike's Peak. A few years later, when the gold mines of Colorado began to attract attention, the route to the promised land lay through Ute Pass, and nearly every prairie schooner which wended its way across the plains had painted on its sides the legend, "Pike's Peak or Bust." Usually it was a case of "bust," but enough of the hardy pioneers finished the trip to found what is now the great state of Colorado. All this was a scant half-century ago, and it is now nearly a hundred years since the discovery of the Peak which marked their destination. So important a centenary deserves the elaborate celebration planned for it.

THE ISLE OF PINES SQUABBLE.

THE little band of American colonists in the Isle of Pines continue to assert their "rights" to protection from the American Government, and the latest word is that they expect to bring in arms and filibusters to uphold the territorial form of government which they propose to establish. Tactics of this kind might be expected from hot-headed Cubans, but it is a little surprising that enlightened Americans would contemplate such a proceeding, for it is certain to end disastrously for them. Secretary Root some time ago warned them that they had better submit to the Cuban laws and avoid trouble, but they evidently are determined to resort to extreme measures to protect their asserted rights.

This situation is the result of a peculiar diplomatic tangle, and there is just enough justification for the attitude of the Americans in the island to entitle them to some degree of sympathy. The Isle of Pines is a little dot of land in the Caribbean Sea, directly south of the province of Havana, Cuba. It has always been considered a part of that province and is so shown on all the maps extant. The American Peace Commissioners at Paris apparently had no doubt about its status as an integral part of the island of Cuba. The treaty of peace with Spain contains in its first article the provision "Spain relinquishes all claim of sovereignty over and title to Cuba," and it was further provided that the island was to be occupied by the United States, which was to assume obligations specifically "limited to the time of its occupancy." The present trouble arises from a provision in Article 2 of the treaty which declares that "Spain cedes to the United States the island of Porto Rico and other islands now under Spanish sovereignty in the West Indies."

The question immediately arose whether the Isle of Pines was included in this category. The Cubans decided that it was not, that the intention of the Peace Commissioners was to cede only Porto Rico and the islands immediately adjacent thereto, such as Culebra and Vieques, and leave the Isle of Pines as a part of Cuba. In the opinion of Judge H. Kennan of Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, who made a study of inquiry to Major John J. Pershing, then Chief of the Insular Bureau, to which Major Pershing replied that Spain had ceded the Isle of Pines to the United States and it was subject to the action of Congress. This letter expressed the views of the matter held by George D. Meiklejohn, the Assistant Secretary of War, but Mr. Root, then Secretary of War, did not acquiesce in this opinion. He referred the matter to Judge Magoon, the law officer of the department, who gave an opinion that the War Department had no power to decide the question, as it was purely political, and must be settled by Congress and the President.

After the publication of the Pershing letter there was an immediate rush of Americans to the Isle of Pines. They bought large tracts of land at low prices, until now nearly four-fifths of the Island belongs to former American citizens. The total population is said to be about 3,000, of whom one-half are Americans. The uncertainty of their status caused them to place their case before Congress, and as a result a provision was incorporated in the Platt Amendment that "the Isle of Pines shall be omitted from the proposed constitutional boundaries of Cuba, the title thereto being left to future adjustment by treaty." The Cuban constitution adopted in February, 1901, says: "The territory of the Republic is composed of the island of Cuba as well as the adjacent island and keys, which, together therewith, were under the sovereignty of Spain until the ratification of the Treaty of Paris of December, 1898." However, the appendix to the constitution contains this article: "The Isle of Pines shall be omitted from the boundaries of Cuba specified in the constitution, the future ownership thereof being left to future adjustment by treaty."

In negotiating for naval stations upon the island of Cuba, the American Government has since agreed to relinquish all claim to the Isle of Pines, in consideration of the grant by the Cuban government of the desired stations. This treaty has been ratified by Cuba and is now pending before the United States Senate. It will without doubt be ratified, as there is scarcely a reasonable question as to Cuba's claim; moreover, the United States needs the naval stations more than it does the Isle of Pines. Meanwhile the government of the Isle is in the hands of the Cubans, and if the American residents resort to filibustering they are likely to be hanged. It is hardly likely that President Palma's government would resort to this extreme measure, for, as has been shown, the Pershing letter gave the Americans some justification for their present attitude.

THE COLLEGE'S ADVANCEMENT.

IN a retrospect of the happenings of the year that have been of signal importance to the best interests of Colorado Springs, two events stand out with particular prominence, both connected with the development of Colorado College. At the commencement exercises in June President Slocum made the announcement that $195,000 had been pledged toward the increased endowment. Just six months later came the news that through the generosity of General Palmer and Dr. Bell the College has been given the means to start a school of forestry, a movement the importance of which can hardly be overestimated.

The College has risen rapidly from very small beginnings to a position of prominence that is by no means local. There is not an institution for higher learning in the West that has a better reputation for scholarship. Its students who have gone out to do graduate work in Eastern universities have, by the high rank they have taken, demonstrated the high character of the instruction they received at the College. The imposing buildings upon the fine campus show the confidence of the College authorities in the ability of the institution to endure. In the faculty there are today men whose work has given them international reputation, the student body is loyal and enthusiastic.

These far-reaching results have been attained in the face of great difficulties. The College is on an independent foundation that is all its funds are free-will offerings. People do not give to anything unless they believe in it; an institution for higher learning, too, has to show its fitness before it can expect much help, and the difficulty is that the fitness has to be shown when support and endowment are utterly inadequate. That President Slocum and his co-workers have made and kept a number of loyal friends redounds much to their honor.

The difficulty under which Colorado College, like all endowed institutions, labors, is that all growth and success entail new cares. The addition of a department such as the engineering school at the College necessitates great additional outlay. State institutions, like the State University, meet increased expense by an appeal to the legislature. It will be remembered, for instance, that the income of the Colorado State University was increased a short time ago from $70,000 to $140,000 per annum. The College has no such resources; every step it takes forward must be backed by the generosity of individual donors. Because it has gone on its way fearlessly in spite of its burdens, because of its success, because of the faith its loyal supporters have shown, it deserves the unstinted support of this community and this region.

"A thousand-dollar bill makes a very welcome Christmas present," says the Boston Globe. Yes, so does a steam yacht, or an automobile, or a block of standard oil stock. But Santa Claus usually carries a very limited supply of these things.

A society has been started in Chicago to prevent the use of slang in general conversation. This is a direct slap at Chicago's most noted literateur, George Ade.

HOIST THE BLACK FLAG.

Recent disclosures of low moral standards, cheap deceits and callous indifference to the rights of others on the part of men of financial and business prominence have sorely hurt those who long for a decent world to live in, for an unclean world is as intolerable to morally sensitive people as is an unclean house to physically sensitive people. No American who loves his country and remembers Emerson's definition of its mission to breed superior men and women can fail to hang his head in shame over the continuous revelation of lack of principle and cheapness of character in men who have been greatly trusted and have proved grossly untrustworthy. The shame of the United States senate, with several members who have been under indictment or known to be unscrupulous corporationists, of department officers of high station selling information as if it were produce, of men intrusted with vast funds for purposes which ought to make their custody a sacred charge, greedily using the money of other people for their own benefit—these things are ominous and menacing in the last degree.

Americans are not more dishonest than other men; but they sin against a greater light, for in this country all enterprises of a public character are supposed to be carried on for the public benefit. Our politicians are never weary of talking about the "sacred rights of the people," although there is no country in which those rights are more flagrantly violated. Our offenses are rank and smell to heaven because we profess so much; our misdeeds are the more damnable because we profess such a lofty faith. The time has come for frankness with ourselves and the world. If we cannot be decent, let us at least be truthful. Let us purge ourselves of dishonesty and hypocrisy and be what we pretend to be, or else preach squarely the doctrine of greed and graft without scruples and keep on doing what we are now doing. Let United States senators stop talking about national ideals, or let them cease to disgrace the country by corrupting legislatures, dividing profits with fund syndicates, and accepting from corporations salaries which they have not earned. It is time for them to make their choice; the country is in no mood to stand further hypocrisy. It begins to look as if the thieves take their hands off the sacred things of the nation, let them ply their trade if they must, but let them forbear to touch with polluted fingers the ideals, the aspirations, and the hopes of the nation; they have done their best to destroy these things.

And it is high time for the officers of some life insurance companies to cease talking about the duty of providing for one's family, the solemn obligation of a man to think of the welfare of his children after he is gone, the beauty of self-sacrifice and self-denial for the sake of the dear ones dependent on our exertions, if the gentlemen whose care for the vast funds committed to their care have shown they do not have the sense of honor, the courage to put an end to the sham philanthropy which they have preached for business purposes, and make their appeals for patronage with manly frankness. If they cannot be honest, let them at least drop the mask of honor and deal squarely with the public. Let them make an end to all the sentimental nonsense about widows and orphans, and say bluntly: "We want your money; pay us the largest possible premiums and we will give you the smallest possible returns. We will accept your money as a trust and administer it for our own advantage; we will pay ourselves enormous salaries and, in one form or another, pension the different members of our families; we will load the management of the business you commit to us with the heaviest possible expense of administration, and we will use your money in all kinds of enterprises for our own benefit, employing as much of it as we see fit in buying legislators and contributing to campaign funds." If this policy of frankness is adopted, the country will respect the courage, if it cannot trust the honesty, of the men who now hold in the not only betrayers of its honor but hypocrites as well.

It is high time for plain dealing. The country is weary of scandals in high places, of men of reputation who are suddenly discovered to be without character, of moral sham and humbug among the ostensibly respectable. There are too many pious sinners, far too many well-behaved self-seekers. If we cannot be honest, we can at least stop pretending to be what we are not. Let us hoist the black flag and stop sailing as a missionary ship.—The Outlook.

CONTRAST.

The golden heart given by the people of Colorado to the president is in glistening contrast with the marble heart that the governor of Mississippi has always shown him.—Boston Globe.

RAILWAY PROSECUTION.

Evidently the government is intent upon vigorous measures to suppress railroad rebating. This is indicated by the institution of proceedings at Philadelphia. There may be no success in securing convictions; the railroads there may be innocent, as they claim they are, but much can be done to put down the evil by swift and relentless action wherever a bit of evidence appears on which to base it.—Springfield Republican.

NOT UNSCIENTIFIC REASONS.

The French scientist who predicts that in a few centuries most of the earth's inhabitants will have died of thirst gives as the cause the lowering of the water levels, not the growing tendency to screw down the lid.—Kansas City Journal.

AN UNSOLVED PROBLEM.

Turkey is reported to have "come down" in complete surrender to the demands of the powers. That is well. Resistance would have been futile, and worse. The Porte would have had to yield in the end, and further delay would have made its final lot all the worse. There would have been little satisfaction to every most fatalistic Turk in massacring a lot of Christians in Macedonia, only to have a big indemnity exacted and to have those provinces taken away from the Porte, even more completely than they now will be under the financial control of the powers. But the problem of Macedonia is not yet solved. It is simply transferred from the hand of Turkey to the hands of the powers—more competent hands, doubtless, but by no means omnipotent; and something approximating to omniscience and omnipresence seems to be needed to satisfy the conflicting claims and to bring order out of the Macedonian chaos.—New York Tribune.

HOW CUPID GOT BUSY.

A few years ago a man who had reached the age where store teeth were necessary addressed a public meeting in Neosho county. Unfortunately, when in the midst of his most eloquent phrase the upper half of his store teeth spilled out. His eloquence refused to work on a half set, and the others had to be recovered before the speech could be finished. A shy maiden sitting in the front row went down in the dust and dug up the teeth, and, with a coy smile, presented them to the owner, who after swiping them across his trousers' leg, carefully adjusted them and finished the speech. Afterward, however, he sought the maiden who had so bravely saved his reputation. He was very grateful and the maiden was very shy, but Cupid got very busy, and they were soon after married and have been living happily ever after.—Erie (Kan.) Record.

A French Election

PRESIDENT LOUBET'S term is ending. In the middle of February the 589 deputies and 300 senators of the French republic will assemble in the grandiose palace of the former kings of France in order to elect another president for seven years.

There are no candidates. It is considered bad taste and it certainly would be bad politics even for hot favorites like Fallieres, Dupuy, Bourgeois or Deschenel to confess so much as the ambition. Good taste commands that up to the very hour of the election they should say: "Who thinks me? There are others better fit. I have never even dreamed of it." There is only one thing that will catch them. It is their devotion to the republic. "I belong to my friends, to my party and to the republic." That is the way to talk.

Another complication is the number of parties. Indeed, the coming election has its chief interest for Frenchmen in the influence which the new president will have as between the extreme radical-socialist tendency and the radical-Republicans, who prefer to go slowly. There are the Conservatives, who include the few Royalists and Bonapartists still in parliament; the moderate Republicans, to whom Ribot and Deschenel belong; the radicals, like Doumer, with whom, perhaps, President Loubet should be counted, and the Socialists proper.

Now, it is clear that no Conservative can be elected. For a Royalist or a Bonapartist to get in would be nothing less than a revolution. In the same way no pure Socialist, like Jaures, for example, could command a sufficient majority.

I have said there are no candidates. I might almost say there is no presidential election. Long ago, when Mac-Mahon was whooping things up so personally and when the French people still remembered their prince-president, who made himself Napoleon III, he who later on was to be President Grevy prophetically sketched out the idea of the present constitution that the people cannot be trusted to elect a president.

"Watchers on the Threshold."

"The fact of his election by the people gives a president excessive force. Are you sure that an ambitious one will not seek to perpetuate himself? If he knows how to be popular, if he be a vigorous general or a scion of one of the families formerly ruling in France, if commerce languishes, if the people suffer, how do you know that such an ambitious president may not arrive at usurping the republic? Until now all republics have foundered in despotism."

Both the Marquis de Dion, who is an undeclared Bonapartist, and Paul Deroulede, who is a Republican adviser of the American institution, fight for the plebiscite which would risk the despotism by throwing the presidential election into the hands of the people. But against such novelties there are Watchers on the Threshold, and their number is 889.

These are the combined members of the chamber of deputies (589) and senate chamber (300), to whom the constitution gives the sole and uninstructed right to meet as a sole and homogeneous body and elect the president by a simple majority vote. President Loubet was elected by 482 out of 824 voting; while, previously, Felix Faure was elected by 430 votes against 361 for Brisson.

Keep your eye on these majorities; the gem of the whole story lies in them. The very same majority of deputies and senators is, day by day, the final arbiter of every act of the French government. By reason of the doctrine of "an impersonal executive," the president is a figurehead and the country is governed by his ministers. But if you think these ministers are independent, you are mistaken. Whose simplest gesture calls them into being? And whose slightest frown destroys them? Why that same majority of deputies and senators.

The question with every American dwelling in France is how a simple majority of so limited and well-defined a coterie, once having got itself in power, could ever be dislodged; because by its power to make and unmake laws, presidents and ministers, it holds in its hands every means of power. The whole civil service system, for example, down to primary and kindergarten school masters, telegraph clerks, railroad guards, employes of state railways and every jacket-button consist, government monopoly in France is more. Our decision. The belief of the Paris grand opera is indicated by it. Indeed the only warning before us for such a majority is that of the Kilkenny cats, who by the fact of being drawn so exclusively together disappeared into thin air when each had eaten up the other.

The Powerful "Block."

This majority exists. It has existed enormously for the past seven years. It has a name. It is the "block" composed of Radicals, Radical-Socialists and Socialists.

I have said that no Conservative or pure Socialist president could be elected. Furthermore you now see why if the block continues holding together no Moderate Republican can hope for the place. This rules out, among men who would be otherwise very apt for the presidency, such personages as Deputy Ribot, Senator Charles Dupuy, Senator Meline and Deputy Paul Deschenel. Deschenel, however, is of the borderland between Moderate and Radicals. He is high-toned democratic and popular, having been for a long time president of the chamber of deputies. Should the block fall into the Kilkenny error and the majority swing slightly toward moderation, young as he is he might have a chance.

But will it? Not on your life. There is too much general good eating in France for the members of the block to be tempted to cannibalism. Suave and polite jiu-jitsu at the most can be expected, and that, as applied to individuals. If you see that a little higher than the others, bleed. That is the only conservative tactic of the Radical-Socialist blackbeasts. It is the spirit in the block that the man president must be sought.

Among the Radicals [illegible] Fallieres [illegible] Dupuy [illegible] Deschenel [illegible] Doumer [illegible] other such is Leon Bourgeois, of the borderland between Radicals and Radical-Socialists, today a favorite in the betting. So his head is dangerously high. Doumer, who is of the same wing, is the present president of the chamber of deputies. As such his election was a direct triumph of his group, which indicates toward moderation the greatest split that ever threatened the block. As a candidate he is greatly feared, and it is charged that he is backed by M. Leon Bourgeois, who had him preside the other day at the mess-ter banquet of Grand Masonic importance of the president of the senate. He is so dangerous that he may be elected to get him out of the way.

Should M. Doumer become president he would give to the French people the same strenuous, scrupulating lesson of President Roosevelt. He married in the age of 21 years. At the age of [illegible] years he has eight children and six grandchildren.

Bourgeois a Charmer.

Bourgeois is called a charmer. As a young [illegible] clerk he [illegible] the ministry of [illegible] he took and made high chief of the department. On the historic sixteenth of May, when Mac-Mahon started to do up the Republican party, young Bourgeois walked out of his job behind his resigning minister and patron, and he charmed everyone that after the coup not which he [illegible] the Republican power, they sent him to the Marne, first as secretary general and then as under prefect of Reims. From the Marne he passed to the Tarn, which his seductive qualities were exercised on Senator Barbey. He rose in the hierarchy like a rocket. In 1888 the Marne elected him its deputy. At once Floquet, charmed, took him as secretary of state for the interior. Two years later he became minister—you would say by a fluke, were it not for his charms.

Is he likely to go in French political jiu-jitsu, which has never as yet broken a leg for this charmer, will probably see to his affair at home. And this is why we, who are outside of the heat of interests, look for a dark horse.

The Dark Horse.

There is a dark horse. It is not Paul Deschenel, who would make an elegant young president, and who, having independence of action. Did not Paul Deschenel, on the occasion of his recent marriage, break through all French prejudice by appearing in frock coat and striped pants instead of evening dress? He was too independent. Nor will it be the "austere Brisson," the man-with-a-conscience. It was that conscience which started the agitation for Dreyfus. The evening after the degradation, a young officer who had been present, dined with Brisson. "I was troubled by the fate of Dreyfus," he said; "his cries of innocence appeared to me sincere." That was enough for Brisson. [illegible] Dreyfus affair was born in a dream.

No, the dark horse is a kind of different plumage. He is Deputy Sarrien, who is [illegible] Premier Clemenceau. Sarrien was only the other day [illegible] to date from [illegible] the whole transformation of the Republic country—the whole constitution would have had to change under a certain candidate of his were made minister of the interior.

And what is the minister of the interior? Why, he is just the minister who will preside at the elections. There is no other. Warning [illegible] discriminating against on the coming election problem that the administration [illegible] against them.

There is a dark [illegible] the very dark [illegible] names. MRS. LACEY DID NOT SLAP HER DAUGHTER

Mrs. Lida Lacey was given a hearing before Justice Dunnington yesterday upon a charge of assaulting Mrs. Lulu Bodenbaugh on November 11. It was alleged that during a dispute between the two women over the possession of Edna and Irene Lacey on November 11 Mrs. Bodenbaugh was slapped by Mrs. Lacey. In the opinion of the court the preponderance of evidence was that no slapping occurred, and Mrs. Lacey was acquitted. The complaint in the case was originally made before Justice Ruby and was transferred to the other court upon a change of venue.

WOMAN'S CLUB

CLASS MAY BE FORMED TO READ FRENCH CLASSICS—YESTERDAY'S ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Mrs. G. A. Sawyer presided yesterday afternoon at a regular meeting of the literature department of the woman's club, held in G. A. R. hall. The day was read by Mrs. A. Mueller on the subject of the eighteenth century. Home Economics also, a lively class of the department, Thursday, December 28, at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. J. H. Wallstadt, South Walsatch avenue, was announced. It was also announced that a class be formed during the holidays to read the French classics.

Early dates in January will be taken on the fifth or the last Friday of the month.

Meeting of the social science department will be held on Wednesday, January 25. Children's day will occur on Saturday, December 30.

A general meeting of the club on Tuesday, January 30, will be in charge of the art and literature department. It will be made a "flower" meeting, although the matter is not decided.

TURKEY PRICES LITTLE HIGHER

Colorado Springs people will perhaps enjoy less turkey this Christmas than was prepared for last year's feast. The reason that prices this year are slightly higher is as follows: The Saunders Commission company's dressing coops are filled with turkeys, chickens, geese and ducks. The turkeys are of a better quality than ever before. They wholesale at 18 and 20 cents and will retail at 22 and 23 cents. Home dressed chickens bring 18 and 20 cents retail. The chickens shipped in will be somewhat cheaper.

The Colorado turkey is better than that of Kansas or Nebraska and is not excelled by that of Rhode Island. At present about 15,000 pounds of turkey are on the local market and about 25,000 will be needed. There will be no stint of the supply, but the present prices will rule through the holiday season.

Cranberries are $2 and $3 per barrel higher this year than last.

The corresponding of fowls by the Saunders Commission company is an unqualified success. The company has two coops in which all birds shipped on the market are fed a milk and bran mash for fourteen days before being dressed. The coops are whitewashed every time they are emptied. The birds are in nice condition when dressed and a large stock can be carried on this plan.

Stubborn Coughs.

A cough which lingers on long after the cause has gone, or a cold hard to heal, should have attention, as it indicates some deep-seated trouble and may result seriously. Mr. Alexander McMillan, of Maple Ridge, Mich., commends Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for this trouble. He says: "I used this remedy for a stubborn cough with the best results and think there is nothing like it. I cannot speak too highly of it." For sale by all druggists.

Societies and Clubs

The regular semi-monthly meeting and election of officers of the Parish club will be held this evening at the parish house, of Grace Episcopal church.

The Women's Missionary society of the Cumberland Presbyterian church will hold its quarterly tea at the home of Mrs. Liles, 1027 Washington street, this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Section three of the Ladies' Aid society of the First M. E. church will meet this afternoon with Mrs. G. S. Estill at the Alamo hotel.

NO GOWN RESULTED IN A POSTPONED WEDDING

The wedding of Dr. J. E. MacNeill of Denver, father of C. M. MacNeill, the millionaire mine and mill owner of this city, and Mrs. Louise A. Bloor, widow of the late Frederick Bloor of London, which was to have been celebrated in Denver last night, was postponed until tonight on account of the varying delays of a fashionable modiste in Denver. When Mrs. Bloor found out that the busy rush of Christmas had spoiled her modiste's plans and that her wedding gown would not be completed she immediately postponed the ceremony.

AMUSEMENTS

HOLIDAY ATTRACTION AT THE OPERA HOUSE

A great treat is in store for the patrons of the Opera house next week. Commencing on Monday afternoon Christmas matinee, Bobby and Maude Fountaine with their company of comedians will be seen in a new production of Charles Klein's and Arthur Hornblow's comedy-drama, "Samuel of Posen, or The Commercial Traveler." In addition to the play numbers of features will be introduced which will be in keeping with the holiday season. At the Christmas matinee the Elks lodge has secured the house for the use of the many poor children there will be certain that afternoon. After the performance the Elks will take charge of the stage and distribute the presents to the children. The people will be invited to remain to see the fun. Popular prices both afternoon and evening.

ROBERT EDESON IN "STRONGHEART"

According to the great demand for seats for Robert Edeson in his new famous comedy-drama, "Strongheart," there is every reason to believe that this production will prove the big theatrical event of the season. The engagement is for one night next Saturday at the Opera house. The play, although serious in theme, is set in a background of college life, centering his university, New York which has given the author ample opportunity for good, clean, genuine comedy, of which the said "Strongheart" is full. Although college life has been sketchily touched upon in the "College Widow," the second act of "Strongheart" is the real thing in football. It represents the training quarters of the Columbia eleven between the halves of the big Thanksgiving game. "Strongheart," who has been accused of having sold the signals of his college to the opposing team, is forced out of the game and from the window of the training quarters he whistles to an Indian player the position of the game. This has been conceded by all eastern critics to be one of the best bits of acting ever seen on an American stage. Since this is his last appearance in the fall of the year, and will be at popular prices throughout.

GENEROUS RESPONSE IS MADE BY CLUB WOMEN

For exceeding all expectations was the response to the appeal of the Woman's club of Colorado Springs for donations to a Christmas box to be sent to the State Industrial School for Girls and the State Home for Dependent and Neglected Children. The boxes will be sent off today. The box containing the heavier articles, Mrs. Gregg has motored to the State home, which is 50 miles away, and will be glad to receive a subscription to the Youth's Companion or St. Nicholas. The club members wish to thank all who assisted in the success of the enterprise.

CITY HALL NOTES

Estimates and specifications have been prepared for the supplies to be needed in the various departments of the city government during the first quarter next year. Treasurer W. H. Hoagland, as purchasing agent for the city, is advertising for bids.

Two city water bonds were received at the city treasurer's office yesterday for cancellation, leaving but eight still out of the $1,000 bonds that were refunded.

Only one case delayed the attention of Judge A. P. Toombs in the police court yesterday morning. Homer Ryan being the defendant. Intoxication was the charge and Ryan was found guilty and fined $20 and costs.

A LIVELY FIGHT FOR CONTROL OF THE ACACIA

Stockholders of the Acacia Gold Mining company were interested Yesterday in rival powerful applications for proxies from both factions which are to take part for control of the company at a meeting to be held in Denver next week. Mining men who have been following the fight for control of the Acacia property say that it is a battle between the Mackintosh and Pratt interests, the latter being represented by the Pratt Mining company, which is a syndicate of the shareholders that have been working with some of adjoining properties in the district. It is said that the Pratt interests have secured a majority of the proxies and will be able to control the Acacia. Mackintosh says that the Pratt management is a failure, and that if he can get control he will remove the present management and place in charge men who will develop the property. He says that he will be able to demonstrate that the Acacia is a valuable property, and that the management has been responsible for the failure of the property to pay dividends. He says that the Pratt interests have been working with the management to keep the Acacia from paying dividends, so that they could buy in the stock at a low figure. Mackintosh says that if he gets control of the Acacia he will make it a dividend paying property. He says that he will be able to show that the Acacia is a valuable property, and that it is Pratt's intention to take the Acacia out of the hands of the shareholders. He says that the people in Colorado Springs will be benefited if he gets control of the Acacia, as he will make it a dividend paying property.

Mackintosh makes an opening report in connection with his circular which shows that in the year 1903 the company paid a dividend of $12,000, and that in 1904 the company had a net loss of $11,312.[illegible] and expended $[illegible] in development work. The feature of the fight will perhaps be the fact that President John D. Hamilton is now among the California oil men, and is a large shareholder in the Acacia. So that are friendliest of those for whom he holds the proxies either for himself or for California oil interests. So far, towards determining whether Mackintosh will win out, Pratt's management is in the lead.

SPRINGS MEN STRIKE IT RICH IN ZINC FIELD

Thirty-seven and one-half feet of zinc ore have been struck on the Ben Franklin claim, held under a lease by Colorado Springs people, in the Quartz Row mining district in the Indian Creek mining district, adjacent to this city. The claim was located by J. J. Hackbarth, A. [illegible], C. S. [illegible] and Mary E. Thompson, of Colorado Springs. The ore is a very high grade zinc ore, and the discovery has created much excitement among Colorado Springs people who have been following the development of the Ben Franklin claim. The ore is found in a fissure vein, and the discovery was made by sinking a shaft on the claim. The ore is said to be of a very high grade, and the discovery has created much excitement among Colorado Springs people who have been following the development of the Ben Franklin claim.
